Paul Moline Assumes Role as President of the Vince Lombardi Cancer Foundation

PHOENIX – The Vince Lombardi Cancer Foundation is excited to announce Paul “Mo” Moline as the new president who will lead the foundation in 2022 and 2023.

Moline is a cancer survivor and lives in Cave Creek, Arizona. This is the first time the Vince Lombardi Cancer Foundation has appointed a president who lives outside the state of Wisconsin.

“I feel so fortunate to be here today cancer-free and am honored to be leading a national organization focused on finding a cure,” said Moline. “I plan to utilize my passion for helping others impacted by cancer to help the foundation continue to grow and make an impact beyond the Wisconsin market.”

Moline has been an active member of the Vince Lombardi Cancer Foundation since 2018. For 20 years, he also co-led the MJ Event, a two-day golf tournament in the Dallas-Fort Worth area that has raised more than $7 million for cancer research. During his tenure co-leading the event, Moline was diagnosed with prostate cancer in 2013. He continued to be involved even as he battled to beat the disease.

“This is an exciting time for us and we’re incredibly fortunate to have Mo leading the organization,” said Trace Tendick, immediate past president of the Vince Lombardi Cancer Foundation. “His commitment to creating real change and funding ground-breaking research and impactful care is truly inspiring. I’m confident Mo will uphold the legacy we’ve worked so hard to build while bringing new ideas to fruition to propel our growth.”

In addition to his long-term support of cancer research organizations, Moline worked at Fortune 500 company C.H. Robinson for 26 years. He is now retired. In 2015, he was named to Fortune magazine’s “Heroes of the 500” list for his charitable efforts.
